

How does the VibraGenix Work?

The VibraGenix is a platform driven by sound to produce healing tones and sonic motion while the user stands or sits on it. The biological reaction to sound vibration increases blood flow, lymphatic drainage and most importantly increases the voltage of the cells which makes them work more efficiently and heal more quickly.

Exercises can be performed while on the platform, which amplifies the effect on the body compared to performing the exercises while on solid ground. The muscles do the exercise and simultaneously react to the sound vibration frequencies.
